The Corporation receive Money on Deposit repayable on Demand, upon which no Interest is allowed. Current accounts are kept with Firms and Individuals, free of Commission.

Money is also received on Fixed Deposit, repayable at Twelve, Six, and Three Months' notice. Rates of interest may be known on application either at the office of the Corporation or by letter addressed to the Manager.

Notice of withdrawal may be given at the time of deposit.

The Corporation discount Bills and Notes payable in Hongkong, having at least two approved names unconnected in general partnership; and they advance upon Bullion and Merchandize, not of a perishable nature, in the custody of the Bank.

Exchange.

The Corporation grant Drafts on the Bank of England payable on demand, on the Union Bank of London at Four or Six Months' sight, and on the Head office at shorter sight.

Circular Notes for the use of Travellers are issued, negotiable in all places of importance throughout the world.

Drafts are granted on the several Branches and Agencies of the Corporation, as above, at the Exchange of the day, and on the proper address being furnished will be forwarded direct to the Payees by the Corporation.

Bills payable in Europe or in any of the above places are purchased or remitted for collection.

Approved Bills payable in San Francisco are also purchased by the Corporation, and drafts granted, at rates of exchange equivalent to those ruling on London.—Bills of Exchange on San Francisco, or the Atlantic Ports, will likewise be remitted for collection, at the option of Constituents.

All cheques or orders to be made payable to "The Oriental Bank Corporation."

Information as to the rules of business may be had at the Office, or on application by letter to the Manager.

Office hours 10 to 3; Saturday 10 to 1.

tf Hongkong, 4th September, 1863.

NOTICE.

THE Undersigned call the attention of Masters and Agents of vessels discharging at this port to the great advantage to be gained in point of convenience, despatch, and economy, by making use of their Wharves at New Harbour.

With the assistance of steam cranes, a general cargo can be landed easily in a few days—or in about one-fifth of the time usually occupied discharging in the roads.

There are large, dry, and very commodious brick godowns on the wharves, which vessels have free use of for cargo while discharging.

The trouble and disputes with, and pilfering of cargo common among boatmen, are avoided by vessels using the wharves.

Cartage of cargo to the town (which is within easy distance) is guaranteed to be not more than lighterage from the roads, and the coolie hire discharging alongside is less.

There is always a large stock of the best English and Welsh coals on the premises, which are supplied to steamers at the lowest market price, and vessels going alongside to take in or discharge coals pay no wharfage.

Vessels discharging cargo pay a wharfage of 20 cents per ton—a trifling charge when the immense advantages gained are taken into consideration.

Arrangements have been made by which all repairs to ships or steamers can be done with despatch while the vessels are lying alongside the wharves.

There is an efficient European pilot on the premises, and when required, a steam tug is always available.

The Daily Press

HONGKONG, JUNE 29TH, 1868.

THE future of the Hongkong Police, now that such an immense accession of funds has accrued to that department, becomes a subject of very great interest. We have no information as to the intentions which the Government may have in reference to the expenditure of the new funds, but it is quite evident that "the force" in this colony ought to become a model of perfection in many ways. It is only fair to acknowledge that the efficiency of the police has been greatly improved during the last two years, and that the present improvements will be commenced from a very much more elevated platform than if they had been begun before the legislation of 1867. Still there remains one great difficulty to contend with. The pay given to the European constables is so small that they are tempted to assert they cannot live upon it. Perhaps everyone does not fully grasp the meaning of this admission, but if they cannot and do not live upon their pay, by what means is that supplemented? We all know by what means Chinese malefactors of various kinds are willing to supplement it, and we should say that the efforts of the Government to purify the police force of bribery and corruption altogether, can never be successful while the pay of the European constables is so small as it is.

We are disposed to think that it would be a great mistake to spend the additional funds entirely on augmenting the number of Europeans in the force. That would simply be augmenting the evils which exist. Moreover, as far as the maintenance of order in the town is concerned, the Sikhs and the Inkongs really do uncommonly well. If any attempt were made to raise the number of Europeans to such an extent that the fundamental duty of walking about the streets with truncheons would be mainly performed by Europeans, that would be a very doubtful advantage. A tall Sikh, with a black moustache, not to mention a loaded musket, and an aspect of appalling ferocity, must be just as effective in frightening off a Chinaman meditating a burglary as any European that this Government is likely to enlist. If the garrison were removed, and the revenues of the colony lightened of their principal burden, the case would be different again. Then it would be desirable to give the Police force more of a national character than it at present possesses, but while we continue to pay and sacrifice so much for the presence of European troops, we may recollect at all events that there is a stand-by at the Murray Barracks in the event of any political disturbances which might render the Chinese population troublesome. It is unnecessary, therefore, to add materially to the European strength in the police for the purpose of making it a garrison, and, as we say, the difficulty of repressing corruption is increased the more Europeans there are in the force. We do not mean for a moment to imply that the morals of Europeans are lower than those of Sikhs, but the necessities of Europeans in Hongkong are much greater, and the opportunities of accepting bribes which present themselves to European constables are much more numerous and remarkable than those possessed by the Sikhs.

The true theory of the Hongkong police force appears to be, that it is an Indian force directed by European officers. For collaring prisoners,—local peculiarities might possibly be thought to entail the use of another expression,—but at all events for taking prisoners into custody, bullying them into quiescence when they are troublesome, and generally for accomplishing any violence which may be necessary in the interests of peace and order, there is a fine supply of bone and muscle in the Sikh contingent. For utilising this raw material properly, for performing detective duty, for keeping a surveillance over the suspicious portions of the population, Europeans of intelligence and probity are required. In this way it seems to us that increased funds to be devoted to the police can best be employed in raising the moral standard of the European constables, sergeants, and inspectors. Withdraw from the European constables that excuse for venality, which any of them who may still be corrupted must no doubt offer themselves,—that they are underpaid, and cannot help themselves. Let the government pay them a sum which it is not ashamed to offer, a sum which it does not wound their self-respect to receive, and let corruption, besides being a crime severely punishable by law, be one about the iniquity of which, even a man with the most elastic conscience cannot possibly delude himself.

THERE is said to be a danger menacing the Swimming Bath. That establishment, it will be remembered, did not receive an indefinite lease of life when it was started, as the GOVERNOR conceived it might be considered an eyesore when the improvements going on at the Cricket Ground should be complete. We now understand that an intimation has been received from the Colonial Secretary's office, reminding the Committee that the greater part of the time conceded has elapsed, and that they must make up their minds to remove the bath at the expiration of the time appointed. This period, we believe, extends to the month of May next, so that there is plenty of time yet to consider what should be done, and those who are interested in the maintenance of the bath,—a very large number,—have reason to be obliged for the long notice given them. They, however, and a large majority of the community, would have still more reason to feel obliged if the Government would give up the idea of removing the bath altogether for the present. The manner in which the bath has been made use of ever since its erection proves that it is an institution, whose removal would be severely felt by a very great number. On a fine afternoon, it is a common thing for the extensive accommodation of the bath to be completely occupied. In the morning also there are numbers of people who go down constantly, and have done so winter and summer, ever since the place was started. The destruction of the establishment would be a source of very widespread annoyance and regret. More than this even, there is striking and important testimony in possession of the bathing committee to the effect that the existence of the bath has had a great deal to do with the remarkably good health the community has enjoyed during the past two years. If the new Praya which skirts the cricket ground were a promenade, of which the community at large showed any desire to avail themselves, there would be more reason for requiring the bath removed, but this community moves entirely in ruts, and it is notorious that scarcely anyone has departed from old established customs, for the sake of promenading on the new esplanade. There is no other place where the bath could be set up, even if the money which its removal would cost could be found. We imagine, therefore, that a remonstrance against its destruction would be signed by almost everyone in the place.

The Accident to the P. & O. Steamer "Surat."

We have received for publication the following official particulars of this disaster:—

The Surat left Galle on the 2nd June, having on board the Mails, Passengers, and Cargo ex Malacca, in addition to those from Madras and Calcutta. She arrived back at Galle on the 7th instant, with a hole in her stern, supposed to have been done by a blade of the screw which had broken away during very heavy weather. After survey by Engineers, it was decided to send the ship back to Calcutta, and she accordingly left Galle for that port on the 9th, the leak being temporarily repaired. The Mails were transferred to the British India Co.'s Steamer Decca, and left Galle at 2.45 P.M. on the 7th June for Aden, where they would be put on board the vessel from Bombay.

The passengers who wished to proceed by the French steamer Tigre had the difference of passage money refunded. To those remaining at Galle for the next P. & O. steamer, £1 per diem would be allowed during their detention at that port. Some portion of the Cargo has been damaged by sea water.

Supreme Court, June 27th.

NISI PRIUS.

BEFORE CHIEF JUSTICE SMALE.

This was an adjourned hearing of an application by Saint for a rule nisi, calling upon defendant to show cause why he should not stand committed, for contempt of court, in having published a certain article in the China Magazine commenting on the case Regina v. Saint, while it is still pending, and making such remarks as were likely to prejudice defendant's case.

The hearing was adjourned on Friday, in order that applicants might produce to the court satisfactory proof that Davies was the proper person to be before the court, and was the one liable in this matter. Mr. Hayllar, who appeared for the motion, instructed by Mr. Gaskell, said that he had prepared a new motion, in which the words should "stand committed" had been struck out, and in their place the purpose of application had been made for an attachment to bring Davies before the court. This was all they wished to do, and it would then be for the court to use its discretion in imposing fine or imprisonment. This was he believed in accordance with the common law practice. In support of the motion Mr. Hayllar produced an affidavit filed by Mr. D'Almeda, from the Colonial Secretary's office, producing the register bond of the Magazine, and in which Mr. Davies is described as proprietor and conductor, an affidavit by Mr. Noronha, by Mr. Saint, appending a copy of the Magazine, and two by Mr. Gaskell, appending two letters, one to and the other from Mr. Davies, on the subject of this article.

The Chief Justice said that he had examined the article in question with a great deal of care, because he thought he was bound to do so in a matter of this importance, and he had also compared what was there stated with what had actually taken place, and he must say that the two differed very materially. The article contained inaccuracies of statement, as also inaccuracies of reasoning. It began by a wrong statement. "The Attorney-General had filed three criminal informations." Now this was not a "criminal" information that had been filed, and it was very wrong to call them such, since no criminal information could be filed until the party applying for it had made affidavits, which was very far from the course pursued in this instance. These informations had been filed on certain information communicated to the Attorney-General, and by him filed ex-officio, and therefore entirely different proceedings from criminal informations, to call them which was an injustice against the defendant. Again, the article alluded to hush money having been paid to Sr. Amaral, the words hush money being in inverted commas, and therefore designed to fix the attention of the reader, and impress upon his mind the fact that the libel consisted in this sentence. He had looked over the informations very carefully, and could not find anything about hush money or any intimation of hush money having been paid, or even that a single dollar had found its way into the pocket of Sr. Amaral, but whether this fact was so or not, or whether the libel consisted in this he could not but suspend his judgment for the present. It had been said by either Vice-Chancellor Kindersley or Chief Justice Wood, that persons writing anonymously, wrote under an absence of that responsibility which rested upon those who had to administer justice, a fact which it was most important to bear in mind, for the influence of this magazine, whatever it might be, could be used, and a jury so influenced must bring a verdict of guilty. The article further contained inaccuracies, and went on to state what in the writer's opinion was the definition of a constitutional principle, but he should be very sorry to find what was there laid down prevailing in the minds of a jury before whom the case might be tried. Again, the last paragraph said there could be "no doubt that the articles complained of were libellous, and if the informations would lie a verdict must be given for the crown." There could be no doubt about this contempt, and the rule applied for was accordingly granted, but he hoped Mr. Davies would very carefully consider the words of Vice-Chancellor Kindersley in the case of Felkin v. Herbert, when he said:—"It was always a disagreeable office to commit a party to prison; but the court must not therefore shrink from it, if justice required it in order to hold him up as a warning to others, and his Honor had no alternative in this case but to commit him." His Honor had the less hesitation in doing so from the course he had pursued, he had either been unfortunately advised, or having received good advice had not thought fit to follow it. Instead of doing what any reasonable man would have done, and any legal adviser, would have counselled, making an affidavit expressing regret, and, to propitiate the justice of the court, he had vindicated the truth of part of the statements, and instructed counsel to argue that there was no contempt, and he had a right to publish the article, and, if the court thought there was a contempt, then he would express his regret, which of course was no expression of regret at all." These were observations which he hoped Mr. Davies would very carefully consider, before coming into court, and he had no doubt they would reach him somehow. Again, in the contempt case of the Barrister Pater, the judge had said, that when a gentleman had done anything not correct, or strictly in accordance with the rules of custom, it was the first duty of a gentleman to make what reparation lay in his power. The present rule would be returnable in six days, would that be too long a time? or did they wish the matter to come on sooner?

Mr. Hayllar began saying that they did not wish to press—— when

The Chief Justice said he could not hear anything of this kind. The applicant came there for justice, and he either wanted it or didn't want it, and it was not right to begin talking about not wanting to press. They had seen fit to come into court with a purpose, and not to express their regret at coming.

Mr. Hayllar explained that he only intended to say that they were in no hurry as to time, and did not ask for anything under the usual time.

The Colony of Victoria.

(From the "Saturday Review.")

One of the most striking changes of late years has been the loss of general interest in the fortunes and government of English colonies. Twenty or twenty-five years ago colonial questions not only engaged the attention of speculative writers and the general public, but also determined the conduct of Parliamentary parties and the fate of Ministries. Now, no question, not even an Indian question, is so uninteresting as a colonial one. The government of some three or four millions of Englishmen in remote parts of the globe is less cared for than an outbreak at Bucharest or a squabble at Constantinople. How colonists live, how they make and administer their laws, how they make and raise and spend money,—all these subjects, which one would have considered interesting to the subjects of a constitutional State, and the founders of half-a-hundred colonial settlements, are neither known nor cared for by any Englishmen except those whose friends and relations are colonists. This is, of course, a prodigious blessing to the clerks in the Colonial-office, who must congratulate themselves on the contrast between the blissful repose of present and the tumultuous harassment of past days. But it is hardly consistent with the intelligence of the greatest colonising country of modern times.

Meanwhile the political existence of these dependencies has not been barren in lessons which we might have read with profit. One of the richest and youngest of them is described by a writer in the last number of the Westminster Review in terms which, considering the vehicle of our information, may well give Reformers pause. If there was any one paper, or review in which one might have expected to read a favourable account of the most democratic of the Colonial Constitutions, that was the Westminster. A periodical in which all the traditions of the ancient schools of political thought are derided as so much old-fogyism might à priori be supposed to have a bias in favour of a colony which, in practice, has discarded all the traditions of government hitherto recognised in the Mother-country. The writer in the Westminster gives us facts, and withholds his praise. He implies that, bad as is the political condition of Victoria, its badness is due not to the quantity (which is excessive), but to the quality, of its democratic Constitution. What this means, we do not exactly know. But when we have presented this writer's report, we think our readers will agree that, whether the quantity or the quality of the Victorian democracy is most to blame, its social and political prospects are equally discouraging.

The colony of Victoria is an offshoot of New South Wales, from which it was formally separated in 1851. It contains fifty millions of acres, and 700,000 inhabitants. Its produce is fourfold—corn, wine, wool, and gold. Its revenue is over £3,000,000 a year. It has ever been free from convicts, and free therefore from those discords and heartburnings with which convict colonies are cursed even for years after transportation to them has ceased. Its people are well off; its produce is just twice that of England, taking head for head of each population. Labour is highly paid, each labourer being in the happy position of a prize to be fought for by two competing masters. All the articles of subsistence are cheaper than in England; and, if clothing is dearer, this is entirely due to the protective policy of the colonists themselves. The climate, although at certain seasons extremely hot for a short time, is, on the whole, highly favourable to health. We have quoted enough to show that Victoria possesses natural advantages of no mean order. It must be the fault of the people, or of some one else, if they are not as happy and well-governed a community as can be imagined. Its Constitution, ever since its separation from its parent colony, has been liberal. At its foundation it was endowed with two elective Chambers, the Upper being chosen by persons of a higher, the Lower by those of a smaller, property qualification. One would have thought that this was democratic enough for any colony, especially as the Upper House was constantly renewed by the periodical change of a portion of its members. However, this was not so. The colony was a favourite resort of English folk endowed with just that amount of reading and that incapacity of thinking which signalized the commonplace Radical of twenty years ago. These persons had for some years of their lives been in the habit of preaching that the salvation of all peoples depended on universal suffrage and the Ballot. Having professed this doctrine in England, where there were certain reasons for believing that their own condition would be improved by carrying it into practice, they continued to profess it in Australia, where it was clearly not wanted. It was excusable for men who thought that the Ballot would shield them against the dictation of dukes, squires, and parsons, to cry out for its establishment in England. But in Victoria there were neither dukes nor squires, and the persons rather depended on their parishioners than ruled them. Not only was there no one in those days able or willing to coerce the open voter, but there was as there still is, no means of securing inviolate secrecy for a vote. Still, the force of phrases was too strong for the patriotic immigrants from Lambeth and the Tower Hamlets. The Ballot was proposed and carried. As if too, in a colony where no house could be hired for less than £12 or £20 a year, the existing qualification (of £5 rental) for an elector was not low enough, it was superseded by universal suffrage. Every man in the colony got a vote for the Assembly, and went through the farce of professing to conceal it.

The effect of all this gratuitous Radicalism was such as might reasonably have been anticipated. It divided society horizontally, not vertically. The colonial population was broken up, not into two opposite political parties, but into two antagonistic classes. The bulk of the original of both came from New South Wales and from the lower strata of English life. It could boast little education and reflection. Though unable to reason on the political conditions of its daily life, it cheerfully accepted them. It found itself living easily and pleasantly, with less toil than would have been required to procure mere subsistence in England. When it was swamped by a new population, it accepted new ideas, simply because it had neither the power nor the inclination to dispute them. The new-comers belonged, for the most part, to the same class as the bulk of the old settlers, and consequently had little difficulty in indoctrinating them with their own theories. Thus it came to pass that men who were proprietors, and had the prospect of becoming large proprietors without difficulty, adopted the communistic views favored by the proletarian paupers from England. This degeneration of political ideas was confirmed by the wild and reckless policy of the Home Government. At a time when it was beyond all things desirable to maintain a standard of stability and unity amidst the shifting and mobile elements of an auriferous colony, and to resist the wayward tendencies of a rude and rough immigration, the English Ministry resolved to confer on Victoria the fatal boon of responsible government. We believe this was done under the administration of Sir John Pakington. Indeed, there is an airy recklessness about it so redolent of that versatile Secretary that it is quite safe to attribute this precious policy to his genius. Society was already divided, as we have said, horizontally. The educated and wealthier classes were on the one side; the less wealthy and almost wholly uneducated were on the other. The only contest, at first, would be on speculative points of territorial occupancy—things not unimportant either practically or theoretically, but in a colony wherein land was so much in excess of population, not of pressing interest or bitter conflict. But when the Government of the colony was put actually at the disposition of the Lower House, and the Lower House was at the beck and bidding of the mob, the subject and the character of Parliamentary contests were changed. The Government of the colony became the prize for the contending factions of the Assembly. As only a small proportion of members was qualified by position or ability to aspire to a seat in the Cabinet, the ignobile vulgus of popular representatives contented themselves with getting a share of the public money under every available pretext. Jobbery became the alternative to office. Few members were qualified by habits, education, or mental discipline of the duties of official life. Accordingly, one member "went in" for a large grant of money to make new roads in his own district; another went in for a new quay or new docks at the seaport of his borough. One wanted an asylum; another a railroad. Nor were the efforts of the members unrewarded. Every grant of money left some of it sticking to the palms of those who procured it. And soon there came that mutual understanding, so common to low-principled assemblies, that each should help his neighbour in pillaging the public. Each member was "a little of the fool, and not too much of the honest." While, by their want of honesty, they made the public expenditure a gigantic system of out-door relief, by their folly they made the public taxation an instrument of the blindest Old-World Protection. Every kind of article which could be made well and cheaply in England was taxed, in order that it might be made ill and dearly in Victoria. Nor was this all. The same political foresight which had given responsible government to a colony not ten years old transferred to that government, or (what is the same thing) to the Lower House, the Crown lands of the colony. Imagine fifty millions of acres put at the disposal of a dozen men, and a good proportion of these Irishmen, who owed their places to universal suffrage! What jobbery, what plunder, what corruption! The imagination runs positively wild in the infinite labyrinth of venality and pillage which such opportunities imply. But the English imagination is fairly distanced by colonial scandals, if such a term can be applied to jobs which, however flagrant, are too common to provoke. They are too numerous and so gross that nothing but the laxest state of public opinion could tolerate them. How profitable they are may be gathered from the fact that the local Parliament is sometimes too much engrossed in them to care about the rise and fall of Ministries. On one occasion, we are informed, the Assembly actually picked the names of the incoming Ministry with pins, on the same principle that it would have drawn them out of a hat. Probably they did what was best under the circumstances. When merit does not influence selection, there is no virtue in special choice.

As the members such must be the Ministers. When one party pits its costermonger against the night-soil man on the other side of the House, eloquence itself is at a loss for terms of panegyric, and choice discreetly makes way for chance. The general character of the House gives peculiar influence to those members whose native audacity has been sharpened, and not over-refined, by education. As the one-eyed man is king among the blind, the one or two lawyers sway the minds and votes of their less educated partisans. A Victoria Attorney-General must indeed possess certain qualities which are as useful to him there as they would be objectionable here. The impudence which prompted him to designate the Judges of the colony as "functionaries in the Attorney-General's department" has nothing to parallel it in this hemisphere. It sounds tame after this to quote the artful dodge of the same adviser of the Crown, who confessed judgment to a suit brought for an illegal loan, and thus pledged the Government to the payment of an illegal debt. The beauty of universal suffrage combined with responsible government is further illustrated by the audacity which compelled a Governor to slight the superior branch of his Legislature, and rewarded his disregard of constitutional principles by an unconstitutional grant of public money. The precedent will no doubt fructify in time, and the Commons of Victoria will probably do stranger things than bully the Judges, slight the Council, and give money to the Governor.

It is useless to blame the Colonial-office for the reckless, happy-go-lucky step of flinging at the head of reluctant colonists powers which they neither expected nor desired. No one credits the Colonial-office either with intimate knowledge of the dependencies which it professes to administer, or with the firmness to use any knowledge which it may accidentally acquire. Its knowledge of the colonies is like human knowledge of the moon—partial and one-sided. And, of the one side which does come within its ken, it only sees the more salient points tipped with borrowed light. For thorough and accurate familiarity it substitutes the conceptions of its own inner consciousness; and, instead of being grateful, is foolish enough to be angry with any one who takes the trouble to enlighten its ignorance. Had the vivacious Pakington and his congenial clerks really known the proclivities of feeling among the educated and proprietary classes of Victoria, they would not have earned the colony by withdrawing from it the salutary check of metropolitan control. But they were ignorant and impatient and precipitate. They dreaded labour which they were too indolent to go through, and they shrank from responsibility with which their talents were unable to cope. So they flung the reins of government into the hands of a motley band of squatters, gold-diggers, loafers, and vagabonds. Even for the evil which they wantonly inflicted they might be entitled to some gratitude did not the general incapacity of English statesmanship preclude the hope that Parliaments or Cabinets could pluck good out of it. They have, unintentionally and unconsciously indeed, given to the world one of the most striking warnings against the folly of indiscriminate concession; but what Minister or what legislator nowadays cares for warnings, or profits by experience? At this moment the severest denunciation of their loose and slovenly Liberalism comes from the most conspicuous champion of democratic theories in the English periodical press.

Parliamentary Government.

The "Weekly Dispatch" of May the 18th, has a curious article depreciating representative institutions, in which with a good deal of nonsense there are some powerful considerations boldly expressed, we read:—

Perhaps the Prince Consort would have been more esteemed had not the Queen insisted upon the nation thinking too much of him. He has had and is having monuments erected to his memory to an extent very much beyond his deserts relatively to other claimants to the respect of the nation. A forced homage gets irksome, and reacts on the object of it. We have quite too many "Albert memorials." Human hypocrisy cannot go on for ever unveiling statues or opening institutions. Yet the Prince was a worthy man, and a wise, independent in thought and philosophical in reflection, having a well self-trained mind and a truly German intrepidity of excogitation. He startled many and, perhaps, "riled" more of us by saying that "representative institutions were on their trial," but after the first surprise was over, the fair-judging and bold-thinking among us began to see the deep significance and the real truth of the proposition. Exeunt fortes ante Agamemnona. England was very great and powerful before she had a Parliament, and she had a Parliament for centuries before the people were represented in it. Cromwell found it a nuisance not an hour before the country had made the same discovery. Has Spain flourished under a Cortes as she did under a Ferdinand or a Charles? Has England been half so well governed as Prussia? We do not know that Napoleon ruled France worse than Pitt and his "Jawing House" did Britain. We question greatly whether the barbarous hordes of Russia with her seven months of winter enforced idleness, could have been civilised and made so powerful by any form of popular suffrage as they have been by an enlightened despotism. Government by majorities does not show for much in the North or South American Republics. In Australia, in our Pacific colonies, where a people-chosen Ministry is rejected by its makers about every eight months, nothing but the prodigious resources of a country you cannot ruin saves their communities from anarchy and ultimate disruption. As for the Americans, they dethrone, and, if the age admitted of it, would behead their chief magistrate, and have subjected the minority to a military despotism.

We know that these suggesting doubts are awfully heretical. They will shock our national complacency as much as George III. was afraid of doing when he hinted his private opinion that Shakespeare was prodigiously overrated. It is true, the American press and people take periodical fits of dragging their Joss in the gutter, Congress and Senate—but especially the more directly representative assembly—become statedly objects of the ridicule, contempt and execration of the whole country. But still the Englishman must lay his account with being regarded as a political infidel who questions the priceless value of the House of Commons. We own the scepticism at first somewhat startled ourselves, especially as it came from the wildest writers of the revolutionary school. But Mephistopheles hints to Faust that the world begins to doubt even the existence of the Devil, and we have arrived at that agony of universal unfaith in the most settled axioms and almost instinctive convictions, which leads us to expect every day some new discovery of error and fallacy in the most cherished and time-honoured principles of society. It is beginning to be hinted, when we boast that in England no man can be taxed but by his own consent, that the chief use of Parliament is just to humbug the people into the consent to be taxed. Had there been no tribunes of the people, there never would have been any national debt. Loans take their date from the active operation of the representative system. The burdens imposed on the Church, nobility, and gentry, were shouldered on to the people entirely by Parliaments. The King of Prussia has conquered Germany without leaving a farthing of debt, while the Parliament of regenerated Italy is hastening to bury the oppressed nationalities in bankruptcy. It is fifty-three years since the great French war ceased in a crowning victory to our arms, yet our representatives have wasted half a century without sensibly diminishing our obligations; and in this year the imperial and local taxation of the country is £33,000,000 a year higher than in the days of Gatton and Sarum. In fact, extension of the suffrage seems to be but a tool for reconciling us to fiscal oppression.

As touching this figment about every man being in the great inquest of the nation by his representative now—this beautiful fossil allegory of each industrious householder and sturdy yeoman being taxed only with his own consent—was it in the knowledge of any of us that a consul was sent to Abyssinia? or is it with your will or ours that Ministers lavish that enormous pile of taxation upon such futile purposes? Why, our legislation is the most antiquated in the world. We are governed by a Logocracy, which means we are put off with words, with three-column leaders and four-column Premiers—"splendid perorations" and "cheering which lasted several minutes." Sixty years ago, the French had a complete digest of their laws—a wholly reconstructed code, improved up to the intelligence of the age. Nothing but the everlasting gabble of a Parliament has withheld the same blessing from ourselves. The administration of Ireland is, in many respects far in advance of that of Britain, chiefly by the wholesome neglect of the House of Commons—by Ministers being permitted by it to make experiments in corpore vili of the sister kingdom. That in despotic Prussia religion should be free, and all sects equal before the law, while we are still creed-mongering and heretic-hunting—that our very colonies should have the land registry and simple transfer system denied to the mother country—that Prussia, France, Austria, Russia, Belgium, Switzerland, should have settled the land question which seems insoluble to us—that peasant proprietaries, and universities open to every subject, should prevail in despotic countries, while we are a landless people, and our colleges are a monopoly of wealthy, spiritual exclusiveness—does anybody believe that if our executive officers had not been tied hand and foot by the old tapes and antediluvian political tackle of what is facetiously termed "a deliberative assembly," we should have been so far in arrear of the advanced administrative science of the world? We repeat the fact, we din it into the ears of the people—it is half a century and more since the great French war ended—we have in all these years of virtual peace made no impression on our debt—our peace-establishment Army costs more than that which drove Napoleon out of the Peninsula—our Navy more than that which fought the Nile and took Copenhagen. We are parting rapidly, with our coal—the only fuel of our national boiler—and our Legislature has for all these years wholly neglected to set its house in order.

Do we think fortune is to last for ever? To us the announcement is striking, and the warning solemn, that we have had ten successive harvests above an average, while the last has been a failure all over the world, and our average of wheat is upwards of 80s. per quarter. In one of the recent discoveries of Von Sybel of the hidden springs of the French Revolution, it is remarked that for nearly twenty successive years France had enjoyed abundant harvests, while a series of deficient crops set in at the close of 1763, and went on up to the point of national famine and consequent convulsion. In the Midsummer Night's Dream a similar visitation is noted in England.

> The seasons alter: hoary-headed frosts
> Fall in the fresh lap of the crimson rose;
> And on old Hyems' chin and icy crown
> An odorous chaplet of sweet summer buds
> Is as in mockery set.

In the year of this description (1594), Dr. Simeon Forman notes "that on the 10th of July many did sit by the fire; and so it was in May and June, and scant two fair days together all the time." Stowe tells us, "In the month of May fell great showers—in June and July much more." Dr. King more generally states, "our years are turned upside down; our summers are no summers; our harvests are no harvests; our seed times are no seed times; for a great space of time scant one day that hath not rained upon us; and the nights are like the days." What has been will be. Seasons go in cycles of seven years, but also in larger circles of centuries. Never was nation in a state of dependence such as ours. Every second morsel we eat we have to buy from the foreigner. If a series of meteorological disasters such as Sybel describes and Shakespeare chronicles overtake us under a dispensation of household suffrage, what will come of law, of property, of authority? May such seasons not come; it is not so certain they will come as that the same Creator rules the universe in 1868 as in 1763 or 1594? Our Parliament seems to be but a tool to legalise our spoliation. Mr. Gladstone, "with labourious petition," screwed down the estimates from £72,792,000 in 1861 to £65,914,000 in 1866, and "small blame to him for that same!" But so irrepressible are the spendthrift proclivities of the Executive, and so futile and reckless is the House of Commons for any really useful function, the outgoings have increased every year since, until now again they have risen in three years no less than £6,000,000, or at the rate of £2,000,000 a year.

Is the world never to grow wiser—which is but another name for growing better? Every nation in Europe—in America worst of all—is, except despotic Prussia, drowned in debt, caused entirely by costly armaments. If it be impossible to establish an Amphyctyonic Council of civilised States to settle international disputes and to enforce its decrees of peace, why cannot we, with France, or with our natural relations the United States, establish such a league of offence and defence, as to make half an army and navy do for each by agreeing to unite the two when danger to either required it? This latter is the vision of Lord Clarendon, and we may see it would at once put an end to Fenianism. Or, if better may not be, why not erect our greater colonies into kingdoms independent, yet allied, giving one Prince to Canada, another to India, a third to Australia, a fourth to New Zealand, each with its army and navy, and all bound up with the mother country together, as bands of brothers, to meet the world in arms if it will not leave us in peace. Let us be wise in time. Household suffrage will not endure the burden of our taxation. If we must spend, it will make the rich pay. Already the property-tax has been made to bear the cost of the Abyssinian expedition. In America relief oscillates between an Income-tax and repudiation. We must recur to the estimates of 1830.

MARRIAGE AFTER DIVORCE.—The returns just issued show that there were twenty-three marriages in England and Wales in 1866 in which one or other of the contracting parties was stated to have been previously divorced. Nine divorced men married spinsters, five divorced men married widows, eight bachelors and one widower married divorced women. These numbers are considerably less than those of the previous year, when there were 48 cases of marriage after divorce—viz., 23 divorced men married spinsters, four divorced men married widows, 17 bachelors married divorced women, three widowers married divorced women, and one divorced man married a divorced woman. In 1864 there were 22 cases of marriage after divorce, in 1863 there were 20 cases, and in 1862 there were 29 cases. In the five years 1862-66 there were 142 marriages in which one or other of the contracting parties was stated to have been previously divorced.

PREFERENTIAL SHAREHOLDERS.—Where there is a surplus of capital on the winding-up of a company, preferential shareholders are not, without special agreement, entitled to a preferential share in the division of the assets. Vice-Chancellor Malins thus held, in the London India-Rubber Company, the question being whether the right of shareholders to a preferential dividend carried with it a right to a preferential payment of capital where there was a surplus under a winding-up. The Vice-Chancellor said he should have been glad, on principles of justice, if he could have ordered the surplus assets among the preference shareholders (who had found all the capital in this company), and could have excluded the patentees, who had drawn the shareholders into so unfortunate a speculation; but the agreement made no provision whatever for the rights of the different classes of shareholders under a winding-up. If dividends had ever been declared, the preference shareholders must have had the arrears of their dividends paid before the other shareholders received anything, but no dividend had ever been declared.

The Alabama Minstrels.

A company of negro singers, under the title of "The Alabama Minstrels," gave a quiet little entertainment on Saturday evening at No. 12, Hollywood-road. The performances consisted of songs, glees, and comic scenes, some of which were excellent, and although the rainy weather kept many expected visitors away, yet the audience assembled expressed themselves highly gratified at the evening's entertainment. We understand an entertainment on a larger scale will shortly be given.

The Weather.

The summer months seemed hardly to have commenced this year before the Chinese began talking of the familiar "typhoon," and for weeks past every time the sky has darkened or the breeze freshened the "big blow" has been predicted to be at hand. Up to Friday last however, no indication had warned the weather wise to take heed, and so regardless of the anger of the "Fung Shuey," or any other man, the fun yai came and went as he saw fit. On Friday afternoon the barometer, which had been ranging about 65, suddenly fell to 40 in the course of a very few hours, and continued going lower through the night. On Saturday morning 42 was marked and the glass still falling. During Saturday the glass at Mr. Falconer's is said to have stood lower than it has for twelve years past, except during the prevalence of a typhoon. With such indications as these, few who have had any experience in this climate could help thinking that a "big wind" was coming, and preparations were made accordingly, but further than a night of very squally, unpleasant weather, there was yesterday morning nothing to report except that the barometer was going up. During Saturday night some of the squalls which came mostly from the West and N.W., were very heavy, and blew for a few moments with almost typhoon violence, but we hear of no damage having been anywhere done except the upsetting of a few chairs, and the destruction of some rickety matsheds. It would seem as though a typhoon must have passed very near this vicinity, and although we have felt it in the atmosphere, Hongkong has been out of the range of its destructive blasts, feeling only a few straggling puffs that may have become detached from the main body of the storm.

During all of Saturday night, and a greater portion of yesterday, rain has been prevalent and abundant, and even up to nine o'clock this morning there is no sign of stopping.

These indications of a typhoon are the earliest we have had for three years, the last being the disastrous blow which destroyed the steamers Chanticleer and Coquet, June 30th, 1865.

A day or two will no doubt bring intelligence of where this blow has been felt, and the story of its destruction will soon reach us from those who unfortunately encountered it in the deep blue sea.

LORD WILLOUGHBY D'ERESBY.—It seems not improbable that the noble defendant in the somewhat too conspicuous case of "D'Alteyrac v. Willoughby," will before long be involved in a yet more difficult case. In 1853, under the Drummond Restitution Act, Lord Perth regained his ancient family honours; and it is rumoured that he contemplates an attempt to substantiate his claim to the family estates now in the possession of Lord Willoughby d'Eresby, in right of his mother. Lord Perth, it is said, has hitherto refrained from prosecuting the claims from feelings of personal regard for the late Lord and Lady Willoughby. The Lincolnshire and other property enjoyed by Lord Willoughby, as representative of the Duke of Ancaster, would not, of course, be affected by the proceedings in question.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Hongkong, Monday Morning.

A limited amount of business has been done in Bengal Drug during the last two days, New Patna at $625 to $630, and Benares at $615 to $617½. It appears that some of the speculators have not been able to meet their engagements, owing to which Patna also changed hands at lower prices. There is some inquiry for Malwa from native quarters. The following are the present ruling prices:—New Patna, $625 to $630; New Patna 6th sales, to arrive, $632½ to $635; New Benares, $615 to $617½, quoted; Malwa, $660 to $670, quoted.

The market for Manufactured Imports begins to show evident signs of weakness, Grey Shirtings having further declined, and even at the low rate at which some goods are reported to have been sold on Saturday, the market is by no means firm. The tightness of the money market has no doubt something to do with this, but beyond this is the fact of the very large stocks, especially of those goods now on hand, and the probability of further additions being soon made of goods purchased at a much lower rate than those now being offered. A very fair estimate has placed the stock of Grey Shirtings now in this market at 650,000 pieces, and this is very probably under the mark. A sale is reported of 8¼ lbs. average quality at $2.80, but the particulars have not yet transpired. Another lot of 5,000 pieces small eagles has fetched $2.00. The lighter weight, 7lbs., is steadier on account of its being rather scarce, and a parcel of 2,000 pieces has to-day been placed at $2.30. The unpleasant weather has no doubt restricted business to some extent, and the only other transactions reported are 50 bales 38-42 Yarn at $155 and 800 pieces 7lbs. T-Cloths Singapore chops at $2.25. Raw Cotton has been in some slight request, and about 400 bales Bombay Staple have found buyers at $21.00. There is no change in shares, and no business doing. A few old Bank have been settled at 21 premium, which is the only business we hear of.

Vessels expected from Calcutta on their to China—West Australian with the following goods, 6,055 maunds Saltpetre, 3,180 bales Cotton. Geologist 6,415 maunds Saltpetre, 5,700 bales Cotton, 112,072 pieces Gunny bags. Fodine 4,781 maunds Saltpetre, 4,317 bale Cotton, 400 pieces Gunny bags.

SALES ON JUNE 27TH, 1868.

As reported by Chinese.

Bombay Cotton, 251 bales, at $21.00, by E. D. Sassoon & Co. to Kin-hing-cheong.

The Alabama Minstrels.

A company of negro singers, under the title of "The Alabama Minstrels," gave a quiet little entertainment on Saturday evening, at No. 12, Hollywood-road. The performances consisted of songs, glees, and comic scenes, some of which were excellent, and although the rainy weather kept many expected visitors away, yet the audience assembled expressed themselves highly gratified at the evening's entertainment. We understand an entertainment on a larger scale will shortly be given.

The Weather.

The summer months seemed hardly to have commenced this year before the Chinese began talking of the familiar "typhoon," and for weeks past every time the sky has darkened or the breeze freshened that "big blow" has been predicted to be at hand. Up to Friday last, however, no indication had warned the weather wise to take heed, and so regardless of the [illegible] of the "Fung-tihey," or any other man, the fun gai came and went as he saw fit. On Friday afternoon, the barometer, which had been ranging about 65, suddenly fell to 49 in the course of a very few hours, and continued going lower through the night. On Saturday morning 42 was marked, and the glass still falling. During Saturday the glass at Mr. Falkener's is said to have stood lower than it has for twelve years past, except during the prevalence of a typhoon. With such indications as these, few who have had any experience in this climate could help thinking that a "big wind" was coming, and preparations were made accordingly, but further than a night of very squally, unpleasant weather, there was yesterday morning nothing to report except that the barometer was going up. During Saturday night some of the squalls, which came chiefly from the West and N.W, were very heavy, and blew for a few moments with almost typhoon violence, but we hear of no damage having been anywhere done except the upsetting of a few chairs, and the destruction of some rickety matsheds. It would seem as though a typhoon must have passed very near this vicinity, and although we have felt it in the atmosphere, Hongkong has been out of the range of its destructive blasts, feeling only a few straggling puffs that may have become detached from the main body of the storm.

During all of Saturday night, and a greater portion of yesterday, rain has been prevalent and abundant, and even up to nine o'clock this morning there is no sign of stopping.

These indications of a typhoon are the earliest we have had for three years, the last being the disastrous blow which destroyed the steamers Chanticleer and Corea, June 10th, 1865.

A day or two will no doubt bring intelligence of where this blow has been felt, and the story of its destruction will soon reach us from those who, unfortunately encountered it in the deep blue sea.

Lord Willoughby d'Eresby.—It seems not improbable that the noble defendant in the somewhat too conspicuous case of "D'Alleyrac v. Willoughby," will before long be involved in a yet more difficult case. In 1853, under the Drummond Restitution Act, Lord Perth regained his ancient family honours, and it is rumoured that he contemplates an attempt to substantiate his claim to the family estates now in the possession of Lord Willoughby d'Eresby, in right of his mother. Lord Perth, it is said, has hitherto refrained from prosecuting the claims from feelings of personal regard for this late Lord and Lady Willoughby. The Lincolnshire and other property enjoyed by Lord Willoughby, as representative of the Duke of Ancaster, would not, of course, be affected by the proceedings in question.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Hongkong, Monday Morning.

A limited amount of business has been done in Bengal Drug during the last two days, New Patna at $625 to $630, and Benares at $615 to $617½. It appears that some of the speculators have not been able to meet their engagements, owing to which Patna also changed hands at lower prices. There is some inquiry for Malwa from native quarters. The following are the present ruling prices:—New Patna, $625 to $630; New Patna 6th sales, to arrive, $632½ to $635; New Benares, $615 to $617½, quoted; Malwa, $680 to $670, quoted.

The market for Manufactured Imports begins to show evident signs of weakness, Grey Shirtings having further declined, and even at the low rate at which some goods are reported to have been sold on Saturday, the market is by no means firm. The tightness of the money market has no doubt something to do with this, but beyond this is the fact of the very large stocks, especially of these goods now on hand, and the probability of further additions being soon made of goods purchased at a much lower rate than those now being offered. A very fair estimate has placed the stock of Grey Shirtings now in this market at 650,000 pieces, and this is very probably under the mark. A sale is reported of of 8¼ lbs. average quality at $2.80, but the particulars have not yet transpired. Another lot of 5,000 pieces small eagles has fetched $2.00. The lighter weight, 7lbs. is steadier on account of its being rather scarce, and a parcel of 2,000 pieces has to-day been placed at $2.50. The unpleasant weather has no doubt restricted business to some extent, and the only other transactions reported are 50 bales 38-42 Yarn at $155 and 800 pieces 7lbs. T-Cloths Singapore chop at $2.25. Raw Cotton has been in some slight request, and about 400 bales Bombay Staple have found buyers at $21.00. There is no change in shares, and no business doing. A few old Bank have been settled at 21 premium, which is the only business we hear of.

Vessels expected from Calcutta on their to China—West Australian with the following goods, 6,655 maunds Saltpetre, 3,486 bales Cotton. Geologist 6,416 maunds Saltpetre, 3,790 bales Cotton, 112,072 pieces Gunny bags. Ladana 4,784 maunds saltpetre, 4,317 bale Cotton, 400 pieces Gunny bags.

Sales on June 27th, 1868.

As reported by Chinese.

Bombay Cotton, 251 bales, at $21.00, by E. D. Sassoon & Co. to Kin-hing cheong.

Bombay Cotton, 100 bales, at $21.00, by E. D. Sassoon & Co. to Wing-cheong-shun.

T-Cloth, 7 lbs, 2000 pieces, at $2.20, by Parsee merchant to Hongkong merchant.

Assorted Camlets, 120 pieces, at $17.75, by Jardine, Matheson & Co. to Cheong-loong.

Black Sesamums, 160 piculs, at Tls. 2.1.5, by Fook-loong to Wing-cheong-hong.

White Wax, 1 piece, at $110.00, by Kin foong-hong to Macao merchant.

Dried Mussels, 50 piculs, at $7.80, Fook-mow-loong to travelling merchant.

Black Sesamums, 200 piculs at Tls. 2.1.5, by Cheo-hing-loong to Hongkong merchant.

Rice, 500 piculs, at $1.67, by Wo-lee-yue to Chinchew merchant.

Hemp, 100 bundles, at Tls. 10.0.0, by Wo-lee-yue to Chinchew merchant.

Siam Rice, 500 piculs, at $1.86, by Wo-lee-yue to Chinchew merchant.

Dried Lily Flowers, 18 bags, $11.50, by Wo-lee-yue to travelling merchant.

Fish, 10 bags, at $3.70, by Wo-lee-yue to travelling merchant.

Rice, 1000 piculs, at $1.55, by The cheong to Hongkong merchant.

My "Wheelerean Hair Restorative!!" I wish to bring to your notice (a discovery made solely by me), the properties of this most wonderful preparation will, I guarantee, have the desired effects of restoring Grey Hair to its Natural Hue, and at the same time preventing baldness; in all cases of diseased human hair, it is most effective, for it removes the outer and older portions of the epidermis and thus frees the pores of the skin much more completely than any of the Brushes or Gloves now in use.

Mr. Wheeler will be prepared to call at the residence of any Lady or Gentleman requiring his services, who may find it inconvenient to visit the establishment, on receipt of a chit to that effect.

Thanking you for past favors, and trusting to meet with a renewal of the same,

Pushing Woman.

(From the "Saturday Review.")

There are three periods in the career of a pushing woman. The first is that in which she emerges from obscurity, or, worse perhaps, from the notoriety of commercial antecedents, and carries by a vigorous rush, the outworks of fashionable society. The wife of a successful speculator in cotton or guano, who is also the mistress of a comfortable mansion in Bloomsbury, gradually becomes restless and dissatisfied with her surroundings. It would be curious to trace the growth of this discontent. Ambition is deeply rooted in the female bosom. Even housemaids are actuated by an impulse to better themselves, and village schoolmistresses yearn for a larger sphere. Perhaps it is this instinct to rise, so creditable to the sex, which compels a lady with a long purse, and a name well known in the City, to enter the lists as an aspirant to fashion. Perhaps her career is developed by a more gradual process. Climbing Denmark Alps is like climbing material Alps—for a time the intervening heights shut out from view the grander peaks. It is not till one has topped Peckham or Hackney that a more extended horizon bursts on the eye, and one catches sight of the glittering summits of Belgravia. Accounts for it as we may, the phenomenon of a woman in the enjoyment of every comfort and luxury that wealth can give, but rowly to barter it all for a few crumbs of contemptuous notice from persons of rank, is by no means uncommon. Probably the fashionable newspaper is a great stimulus to pushing. The rich vulgarian pores over Court Circulars and catalogues of aristocratic names until the fascination becomes irresistible, and the desire to see her own name, purged of cotton or guano, figuring in the same sheet grows to a monomania. But how is this to be done? Fortunately for the purpose which she has in view, there exist in these later days amphibious beings, half trader, half fop, with one set of relations with the world of commerce and another set of relations with the world of fashion. The dandy, driven into the City by the stress of his fiscal exigencies, forms a link between the East-end and the West. Among his other qualities is that of giving aid and counsel, not exactly gratis, to any fair outsider who wants to "get into" society. (For every applicant he has but one bit of advice. She must spend money. For a woman who is neither clever nor beautiful nor high-born, there is but one way to proceed. She must bribe right and left. No rotten borough absorbs more cash than the fashionable world. Its recognition is merely a question of money. All its distinctions have their price. It reads from the passing woman a thumping entrance-fee in the shape of a sumptuous concert or ball. Nor is it only the first push which costs. Every subsequent advance is as much a matter of purchase as a step in the army. There is a tariff of its honours, and any Belgravian actuary can calculate to a nicety the price of a share from a great lady, or a card from a leader of fashion. This is the philosophy expounded by the unsophisticated dandy to his divine pupil. The upshot is, that she must give an entertainment, regardless of entertainments, on a scale of great splendour. Of course the house in Bloomsbury must be exchanged for another in a fashionable quarter. A more precise style of living must be adopted. Her equipages must be gorgeous, her flunkeys numerous and well powdered. Above all, she must at once and for ever make a clean sweep of all her old friends. Upon these conditions, and in consideration of a douceur for himself, he agrees to be her friend, and help her to push. Then follows a delicate negotiation with one of those dowagers who rather pique themselves on their good nature in standing sponsors to pushing neophytes. She, too, makes her conditions. For the sake of the elderly pet to whom she is indebted for her daily supply of scandal, she consents to countenance his protegée. But she declines to ask her to her own house. She will dine with her, provided the dinner is exquisite, and two or three of her own cronies are included in the invitation list. Last and crowning condescension, she will ask the company for the proposed concert or ball, provided the thing is done regardless of expense. It would be hard to say which a cynic would think most charming—the readiness to accept, or the inclination to impose, such conditions. At last the great occasion arrives. Planted at the top of her staircase, under the wing of her fashionable ally, the nominal giver of the entertainment is duly seated at and glared at by a supercilious crowd, who examine her with the same sort of languid interest which they devote to a new animal at the Zoological. The greater number are "going on" to another party. But the next morning brings balm for every mortification. Her ball is blazoned in the fashionable journal, and the well-bred reporter, while elaborately complimentary to his cronies, is decently silent as to the supercilious stares. She does not exactly awake to find her self famous, but at least she is no longer entirely the Fair. At a considerable outlay, she has got into what a connoisseur in shades of fashion would call tenth-rate society. This is not much; still, it is a beginning, and a beginning is everything to a pushing woman.

In the pushing woman of the transition period we behold a lady who has got a certain footing in society, but who is straining every nerve, in season and out of season, by hook and by crook, to improve her position. Society within the Pale is divided into a great many "zones" or "sets." It is like a target, with outer, middle, inner, and innermost circles. The exterior circle, once sounding to "the black" in archery, consists of persons, for the most part, with limited means and moderate ambition. People who try to combine fashion with economy stick here, and advance no further. Quiet dances and champagneless suppers are typical of this circle. Here mothers and daughters pay upon the inexperienced youth of the Universities and green young officers, who are deluded for one season by their pretensions to fashion, but who cut them the next. Here, too, may be found persons whose social progress has been retarded by foolish scruples about setting their old friends. Between this band of prosers upon the outskirts of fashion and "the best set"—the golden ring in the centre of the shield—are many intermediate circles, each representing a different stage of distinction and exclusiveness. It is the multiplicity of these invisible lines of demarcation which makes pushing so laborious. The world of fashion is not one homogeneous camp, it is parcelled out into a number of cliques and coteries. Into one after another of these a pushing woman effects her entrance. She is always edging her way into a new and better set. At every step there is obstacles to be encountered, rivals to be jostled, fierce snubs to be endured. There is something almost sublime in the spectacle of this untiring activity of purpose, and above. But more shocking—sic semilli expers—would never bring her near to her goal. An adept in the art of pushing does not rely on sheer impudence alone. She has recourse to artificial aids and appliances. A great deal of ingenuity is exhibited in the selection of her self-propelling machinery. It is a good plan to acquire a name for some one special speciality. Private theatricals, for instance, or similar entertainments, may be turned to excellent account. Exhibitions of this kind pique curiosity, and people who come to stare remain to supper, and possibly return to drop a card on the following afternoon. But, if you go in for this sort of thing, you must resign yourself to certain inconveniences. Your pretty drawing-room will be like Park Lane in a state of chronic obstruction. The carpenter's work will interfere somewhat with your comfort, and it is tiresome to be perpetually rubbishing your doors and pulling your windows out of their frames. The jealousies and bickerings among the performers are another source of vexation. Miss A. declines to sit as Rowena to Miss B.'s Rebecca; and the drawing-room Roscius invariably objects to the part for which he is cast. Altogether, unless you have a positive taste for carpentry and greenroom squabbles, it is better to steer clear of private theatricals. Then there is the musical dodge. In skilful hands there is no better leverage for pushing operations than drawing-room music. Every one knows Lady Tweedledum and her amateur concerts. The fuss she makes about them is proportionate. They are a cheap sort of entertainment, but they cost the thrifty patroness of area wast deal of trouble. She is always organizing practices, arranging rehearsals, drawing up programmes, or scouring London for musical recruits. She has been known to invade dingy Government offices for a tenor, and to run a soprano to earth in distant Bloomsbury. After all, her "music" is only so so. You may hear better any night at Evans's or the Oxford. One has heard "Dal suo stellato soglio" before, and Niedermeyer inspirations are little fade Sometimes, to complete the impossible, the names of Mendelssohn and Mozart are invoked, and under cover of doing honour to an immortal composer, a chorus of young people assemble for periodical flirtation. On the whole, it is wise not to attempt too much. Miss Quaver, with her staccato notes and semi-professional mimanderies, is not exactly a queen of song. Nor does it give one any exquisite delight to hear Sir Randiscuous Trombone give tongue in a French romance. The talented band of the Piccadilly Troubadours, floundering through the overture to Zampa, hardly satisfies a refined musical ear. But, however inefficient in a musical point of view of the fair projector the thing is a success. It serves as a trap to catch duchesses, a device for putting salt on the tails of the popinjays of fashion. One fine day Lady Tweedledum's pretended zeal for music receives its crowning reward. The noise of it reaches ducal ears. An act of gracious condescension follows. Her Ladyship has the supreme delight of leading a scion of Royalty to a chair of state in her drawing-room, to hear Sir Randiscuous bleat and Miss Quaver trill.

REDUCTION

FIRE INSURANCE.

THE Undersigned have (as already intimated in their Circular dated 14th October last,) received authority from the Secretary of the Royal Insurance Company to reduce the rate of Premium under certain circumstances, on private residences and on Furnitures and effects therein contained.

In cases of Dwelling Houses removed from the town the rate of premium will be three-quarters per cent. in place of one per cent. per annum as hitherto charged, and in cases of Residences so situated below detached and semi-detached the rate will be further reduced to one-half per cent.

The Royal's annual rates for Fire Insurance on the various classes of Buildings and their contents will therefore remain as follows until further notice, viz:—

|---|---|
| Detached and semi-detached Dwelling Houses removed from town, and their contents ..... | ½ per cent. |
| Other Dwelling Houses (similarly situated) and their contents ..... | ½ per cent. |
| Offices and Godowns and their contents ..... | 1 per cent. |
